

HAVE YOUR SAY

29 October 2015

A new plan is underway for the Glenfern Valley Bushlands reserve.

The reserve's first plan, prepared in 2004, has been successful but it is now time to review future directions and actions.

We would like to hear your ideas for the future.

- Should there be a different approach to looking after the bush and providing for visitors? Or should things continue as they are?
- What are the main management actions you would like to see?
- Are you interested in helping the Friends group and Council to look after the reserve?

Reviewing progress (above); Ferny Creek, an attractive feature of the reserve (right).

We welcome your input

You are invited to make contact, or send in your comments to:

- Robin Crocker, consultant, ☎ 0408 884 436, robin@crocker-jones.net.au, or
- Andrew Fullagar, Friends of Glenfern Valley Bushlands, ☎ 9754 4876, logo@mira.net

Comments would be welcome up until 25 November.

Who is preparing the plan?

Experienced consultants, Robin Crocker from Robin Crocker and Associates, and Jeff Yugovic from Biosis, are working with the Friends group and Council to prepare the new plan.

See the Friend website for more information on the reserve:
<http://www.glenfernvalleybushlands.org.au>

